

Tenure Track FACULTY POSITIONS

Oakland University is a doctoral research university in the metro Detroit area that promotes a global perspective amid an inclusive, close knit community. We empower more than 16,000 students with graduate and undergraduate degrees with experiential and diverse experiences. The School of Education and Human Services (SEHS) exemplifies excellence in education and human services through clinical practice, innovative, interdisciplinary and international curricula, community engagement, teaching, individual and collaborative research. The following positions are currently open within SEHS.

ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF SCHOOL COUNSELING

Department of Counseling

We are seeking applicants for a tenure-track position in School Counseling, at either the assistant or associate professor rank. The position will be a full-time appointment with the possibility of summer teaching. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service activities. The successful candidate will demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. The department offers a Master of Arts in Clinical Mental Health, School Counseling, and a Doctoral degree in Counselor Education. Each of these programs are CACREP accredited. The department has faculty with diverse interests who share a commitment to providing excellence in counselor education.

To learn more about the department, visit oakland.edu/counseling or contact the search chair, Dr. Lisa Hawley at hawley@oakland.edu.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OR SPECIAL INSTRUCTOR OF SPECIAL EDUCATION

Department of Human Development and Child Studies

We are seeking applicants for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor or special instructor. Candidates will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students across the four programs within the Special Education area: Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA), Emotional Impairment (EI), Specific Learning Disability (SLD), and Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). Responsibilities will include teaching undergraduate and graduate-level courses. Candidates must demonstrate potential for teaching across and supporting all four areas. The successful candidate will also be able to teach courses within ASD, SLD, and EI within the context of teacher preparation programs. Candidates must demonstrate potential for scholarly productivity, as well as a commitment to or experience with diversity initiatives.

To learn more about the department, visit oakland.edu/hdcs or contact the search chair, Dr. Michael Kranak at kranak@oakland.edu.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OR SPECIAL INSTRUCTOR OF EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Department of Human Development and Child Studies

We are seeking applicants for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor or special instructor. Responsibilities will include teaching, mentoring, and supervising undergraduate and graduate students; advising Ph.D. research; conducting scholarship in child development, early childhood education, or a related field; providing service to the department, school, and university; contributing to the university's mission for community partnerships and engagement; and demonstrating a strong commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

To learn more about the department, visit oakland.edu/hdcs or contact the search chair, Dr. Tomoko Wakabayashi at twakabayashi@oakland.edu.

ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT

Department of Organizational Leadership

We are seeking applicants for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor or associate professor. Responsibilities will include contributing to the field through active research and publishing; engaging in institutional and professional service, including departmental program coordination; advising graduate students and teaching courses in the field of Human Resource Development in the following order of preference:

1. employment systems and standards with a focus on employment law and labor relations
2. learning and development
3. organizational development (including process & performance improvement)
4. career and leadership development

To learn more about the department, visit oakland.edu/orgleadership or contact the search co-chairs, Dr. William Solomonson at solomonson@oakland.edu or Dr. Suzanne Klein at csklein@oakland.edu

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF DIGITAL LEARNING AND LITERACIES

Department of Teaching and Learning

We are seeking applicants for an assistant professor position with expertise in digital literacies and teacher education; whose teaching practice is undergirded by contemporary research in the discipline; whose work demonstrates a strong commitment to equitable teaching practices, social justice, and diversity; who has an interest in and/or experience with practice-based teacher education; and who is eager to work collaboratively within the department, across departments, and within our university-school partnerships. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses related to understanding and implementing digital literacies in the classroom and larger school community; advising graduate students; maintaining an active research agenda through publishing and collaboratively writing grants to shape innovative programs.

To learn more about the department, visit oakland.edu/teach or contact the search chair, Dr. Greg Bartley at bartley@oakland.edu.

APPLY NOW!

Those interested in joining the SEHS team can apply for any of the above positions by visiting jobs.oakland.edu.